Why Play Major Teams?

The 1959 football season promises to be a memorable one for South Dakota State College, even before the kickoff in the initial game.

State grid fans have awaiting them the most attractive home schedule in history, including a visit by a Big Eight team. The Kansas State Wildcats will tangle with the Jackrabbits Saturday night, Sept. 26.

The six-contest home slate also includes Montana State, Colorado State, South Dakota University, North Dakota State and Iowa Teachers.

Kansas State's visit marks the first time that a Big Eight club has played at Brookings and very likely the initial visit by a Big Eight team to a North Central Conference gridiron. This distinction will be short-lived, however, as Iowa State plays South Dakota U. at Vermillion two weeks later.

North Central Conference teams have not been particularly successful in their excursions into the ranks of big-time athletic teams and it's a great day when a loop member succeeds in defeating a major opponent in a major sport. Even bitter conference rivals cast a bit of envious admiration toward a team which grabs such a plum.

Over the span of years, North Central athletic squads have managed to pull such upsets occasionally. In some sports, such as North Dakota U. in hockey and Iowa Teachers in wrestling, conference clubs hold their own regularly against major schools. Most recent example of an upset in a major sport is the basketball victory of South Dakota U. over Wisconsin several years ago.

State College athletic teams often include several major schools on their schedules. While the Jackrabbits have won few of these encounters, they have managed to scare some highly-touted teams. Perhaps the most memorable grid victory of this variety is the 13-6 verdict over Wisconsin in 1935.

Some fans wonder aloud whether North Central Conference members should include such major schools on their schedules when chances of a victory are relatively small or whether they should play only on their own level. A question in return might be, "What is that level?"

Ralph Ginn, State's grid mentor, believes that there is more to gain than to lose from an occasional venture into the big-time. He recognizes, perhaps with greater reason than most, some of the pitfalls. In his first season at the State College helm, he watched All-American Ray Evans lead Kansas to an 86-6 slaughter of his undermanned club. In 1956 he suffered through a 60-0 lacing meted out by Arizona to his injury-ridden team.

However, in most of the games Ginn's charges have played against major foes, the Jacks have made a respectable showing and have benefitted from the experience.

The importance of such fundamentals as speed of the line charge and crispness in blocking and tackling is assimilated more rapidly through experiencing the results than any amount of practice-field drill, Ginn says.

Although State has had some players injured in such games, Ginn thinks that as a general rule there is less chance of receiving bad injuries from playing good teams than from playing poor ones.

The problem of seeking the proper level of competition in football has been with the Jackrabbits since the early days and the experience of most other conference members is similar to that of State College. The Jackrabbits played many of their early football games against city and high school teams from Sioux Falls, Watertown, Flandreau and Pipestone. Later most of their opponents were from the colleges within the state. The Jacks had only fair success against these foes.

First out-of-state collegiate team to appear in the records was North Dakota State in 1903. The occasion was memorable, though not pleasant, as the Bison slapped an 85-0 score on the Jackrabbits.

State's next collegiate venture beyond the borders was nearly as disastrous. Minnesota pinned an 81-0 verdict on the South Dakotans. By the time that North North Central Conference competition was started in 1922, the Jacks were regularly playing such teams as St. Thomas, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Carleton, Creighton, Hamline, Macalester and others.

Another foe to appear on early records was Marquette in 1911. After a 30-year lapse from 1923 to 1953, the Warriors have returned to the State schedule twice in recent years.

Although it has been more than 20 years since State has met a Big Ten foe on the gridiron, Big Eight Conference opponents have become frequent in recent seasons. Since 1947, the Jacks have played Iowa State twice and Kansas once. Kansas State is a newcomer to State schedules this year and will play the Jackrabbits next year at Manhattan.

Other major powers have played against State at different times through the years. All these games have helped add spice to the schedule for both the players and fans.

Finding their level of competition is not a new problem for the Jackrabbits. Back in 1899, this group logged a 55-0 win over Huron College and a 0-57 loss to Mitchell University (DWU) in the course of their four-game season.

coaching staff

REUBEN B. "JACK" FROST, athletic director

Head of athletics and physical education, Jack was formerly basketball coach at State College. During his seven years as Jack cage mentor, his clubs won 85 and lost 70. Twice he guided teams into the NAIB tourney. A 1928 graduate of Luther College, he earned a master's degree from Iowa in 1937 and a doctor's degree in 1958 from the University of Oregon. He coached at Bemidji (Minn.) State before coming to State College in 1947.

FROST

RALPH GINN, head football coach

His State grid teams have won the North Central Conference title six times in his 12 years at the helm. They have won 68, lost 38 and tied six against all foes and are 48-16-6 in loop competition. Ralph's 1950 team gave State its first undefeated season since 1926. He earned a bachelor's degree at Tarkio College in 1930 and a master's at Missouri in 1941. After ten years at Tarkio high, he became coach at his alma mater in 1940. During the war he was coach and directed the army physical education program at Wayne, Nebr., Teachers. In 1944 he became coach at Brookings high school and three years later moved to State College.

GINN

ERVIN HUETHER, backfield coach

Chief scout in addition to coaching the backs, Erv is beginning his tenth year at State and ninth as backfield coach. Also baseball coach at State, he coached at Bowdoin and Bates colleges in Maine and in the Navy. He received a bachelor's degree in 1943 from Yankton College and a master's from Minnesota in 1950.

STAN MARSHALL, line coach

Beginning his third year on the State College staff, Stan is in charge of linemen and defensive planning. His 1957 line paved the way to the conference title. Stan was on State grid teams from 1947 to 1949 and coached at Groton, Centerville, Hot Springs and Jamestown College before returning to State. His Jamestown grid teams won 16, lost five and tied one in three years and his track teams won conference titles both years he was coach. Graduated with high honor in 1950, he earned a master's degree at Iowa in 1953.

AMEN

SINNING

WARREN WILLIAMSON,

Guiding freshman gridders in their transition from prep to college ball is his forte. Warren is in his fourth year on the staff and also coaches wrestling. He earned a bachelor's degree in 1951 and a master's in 1954, both from State College. His scoring feats are still in the State College and conference record books and he still claims a share of the Jacks' total offense mark. He coached at Clear Lake and Winner.

HOWARD AMEN,

assistant freshman coach

He takes time off from teaching mathematics at State College to work with the freshman linemen. An all-conference center on the undefeated 1950 Jackrabbit team, Howard served as coach, math teacher and principal at Lennox before returning to State.

WAYNE SINNING, trainer

Formerly coach at Lennox, Wayne is beginning his third year as State's trainer. He earned a bachelor's degree in 1953 and a master's in 1956, both at State College and has started work toward the doctorate at Oregon.

Harvey Hammrich gets one away during the 1958 Hobo Day game. The day proved a long one for the Jackrabbits who fell before a hard-running North Dakota University squad, 30-12

PROSPECTS

State's Jackrabbits, with 18 lettermen as a nucleus, are facing one of the toughest schedules in their history this year.

In addition to their regular North Central Conference foes, several of whom are well up in strength over a year ago, the Jacks have slated games with Montana State, Colorado State, and Kansas State.

Coach Ralph Ginn's 1959 crew has been drawn from among fifty-nine aspirants who took part in the 20-session spring drills. Ginn and his staff were encouraged by the young squad's aggressiveness and competitive spirit. An overall lack of experience, Ginn feels, is his biggest problem, but two intra-squad clashes, plus the alumni game helped considerable in giving the youngsters game experience.

Expected to carry a good share of the Jackrabbit running attack is two-year letterman, co-captain Jim Vacura, a senior from Jackson, Minn. Vacura has been a starter, and a standout, for the Jackrabbits since his sophomore year. Injured in the first game last year, Vacura never quite reached the performance level expected of him in the 1958 season. A shifty, speedy ball carrier, Vacura is expected to stand with the best in the conference this year. He teams with end Ken Hanify, Belle Fourche, for co-captain honors.

The quarterback position, a weak spot a year ago, will probably be filled by able junior Johnny Meek, Miller. A 5-10, 175 pounder, Meek could become a passing threat.

1958 season

Going into the 1958 season with 24 lettermen and a year-old conference title, the Jackrabbits had everyone but themselves convinced they were set to repeat.

Missing from the lineup, however, were veteran linemen Len Spanjers and Wayne Haensel, the lack of whose leadership was soon to become apparent.

The Jackrabbits opened strongly with a rainswept 12-6 victory over Drake, followed by losses to Marquette and Montana State. Injuries sustained in the Marquette contest did much to set the pattern for future Jackrabbit performances.

A mid-season rally at Brookings gave the Jackrabbits a 20-6 victory over the Augustana Vikings, their first conference opponent, but the victory was followed by two loop losses-- North Dakota university on Hobo day, and South Dakota university on Dakota Day.

The North Dakota State Bison handed the Jackrabbits their third conference loss, destroying all hope for a better than .500 finish.

Ending the season on a somewhat brighter note, the Jackrabbits defeated Morningside and Iowa Teachers for a 3-3 mark in the conference and a 4-5 record for the season.
