History . . .

35 Years of Progress

The people of South Dakota have watched the Little International show grow bigger and better each year until now it is one of the largest of its kind in the Nation. Sponsored by ag club, it is patterned after the Chicago International Livestock and Grain Exposition. The show has been presented every year since 1921 with only three exceptions. The threat of scarlet fever halted the 1926 show and it was cancelled because of World War II in 1944 and 1945.

The staff of the 1921 show included: Lorenz C. Lippert, general manager; Garry Schooler, beef superintendent; George Biggar, dairy superintendent; Leo Mossing, horse superintendent; Marion Bruce, sheep superintendent; Dick Gardner, publicity director; and Gilbert Gilbertson, decoration chairman.

The first show in 1921 was a livestock show. Since then it has grown until it now includes almost every phase of agriculture on campus. The first addition was an exhibit sponsored by agronomy. In 1924 the departmental booths were made a part of the show. Next, the poultry dept. set up competition in egg selection and the dressing of chickens. Horticulture made the next addition to the show with classes in vegetables and flowers. Subsequent additions included the meat cutting and identification contests and wool judging.

In 1948, the agricultural engineers set up the machinery demonstrations and exhibits. Home economics joined the show in 1950 with competition in clothing, foods and arts and crafts. Ag economics set up a contest with competitive entries in the preparation of farm budgets and essays. The latest addition was made this year when the dairy dept. added a dairy products show. Also this year, a day time master of ceremonies with an information direction center located in the field house has been added.

Ag club and Little International staff members are proud of the way the show has continued to grow and sincerely hope that it has been as interesting and pleasing for you to witness as it has been for us to present.

MRS. EARL LAMBERT

Dedication . . .

Mothers and homemakers are often just taken for granted, but we all know that much of the success of a happy home depends upon them. It is for this reason that we wish to honor Mrs. Earl Lambert, truly an outstanding homemaker in her Fulton-Fedora community.

Working together through the years, Mrs. Lambert and her family have done much to improve their home and farm. There are six children in the family—five boys and one girl—but even larger is their family of friends who are always welcome at their home.

Service seems to be the key word in Mrs. Lambert's life. She has been an active Extension Club member for 26 years. For 13 years she has worked in 4-H—being a member herself in her youth. During the time when Miner County was without a Home Demonstration Agent, Mrs. Lambert took charge of the girls' exhibits for Achievement Day. Besides her local work, she is a member of the Board of Directors of the State Leader's Association. Mrs. Lambert's children have many achievements to their credit in 4-H work also.

Mrs. Lambert is a member of the Band Boosters and O. E. S. and helps with such community drives as Red Cross, Polio, and CROP. The entire family is active in the Fedora Presbyterian Church.

The Lamberts have also had the opportunity to become acquainted with several foreign students which have been in this country and at their home. She says:

"These experiences, I feel, have enriched our lives and make us all feel that we are people of one world bent on one purpose, that of living together peacefully in this world."

"And to live peacefully, one country's people with another's, we must start at home. That's where better homemaking comes in. In our home we sing and play together, work together, and go to church together. Our family, I think and hope, feel these home ties and appreciate our country, especially the farmlands."

Dedication . . .

The 1955 Little International has selected Emil Rezac, a Tabor farmer, as the outstanding South Dakota farmer to be honored at this years show. Mr. Rezac was chosen as the one who has done most toward advancing agriculture in the state.

EMIL REZAC

Just previous to the show, Mr. Rezac was in South America on a Stockman's tour. The 17 members of the tour were promoting the U. S. Hereford in South America countries. They visited Peru, Chile, Argentina, Uruguay and Brazil.

Emil Rezac was born October 13, 1899, on a farm near Tabor. The farm was homesteaded by Joseph Rezac, Emil's grandfather, who came to this country from Czechoslovakia in 1865. Joseph began developing the purebred stock of Herefords which is now operated by Joseph Rezac, Jr., Emil and Stanley. The stock farm is 640 acres. Some of the purebreds raised on the Rezac farm are in herds from Pennsylvania to Washington state. The present herd numbers about 250 head.

Emil attended high school at Trinity in Sioux City. He graduated from Iowa State College in 1920 with a major in Animal Husbandry. After his graduation he went back to the farm to manage the Hereford herd. In addition, he was the leader of one of the first 4-H clubs in Yankton county for five years.

Since 1937 he has become one of the nation's favorite judges of Hereford cattle. He judges in shows from coast to coast including many state fairs. Some of the places he has judged include Kansas City, Chicago, Columbus, Ohio; Toronto, Canada and many others.

Rezac was one of the first presidents of the South Dakota Hereford Association and is now one of the directors. Last fall he was elected to serve as a director for the Bon-Homme-Yankton R. E. A.

Although Rezac is a busy man, he always has time to help the young people of the state. The Rezac farm is a well known place to 4-H'ers in the Tabor area. Livestock judging schools are often held there for 4-H clubs.

Rezac is well known to livestock men and is one of the leaders in developing South Dakota agriculture.

Awards . . .

The Little International staff is deeply grateful to the many award donors who have played an important part in the success of our show. The various ribbons, medals and trophies made possible through their generosity will be proudly and permanently displayed by the respective winners in their individual show cases. The keenest of competition in each class is afforded through these awards which gives every contestant something worth striving for. The donors for each division are listed throughout the catalog and we commend them to your attention.

Greetings From The President:

February 15, 1955

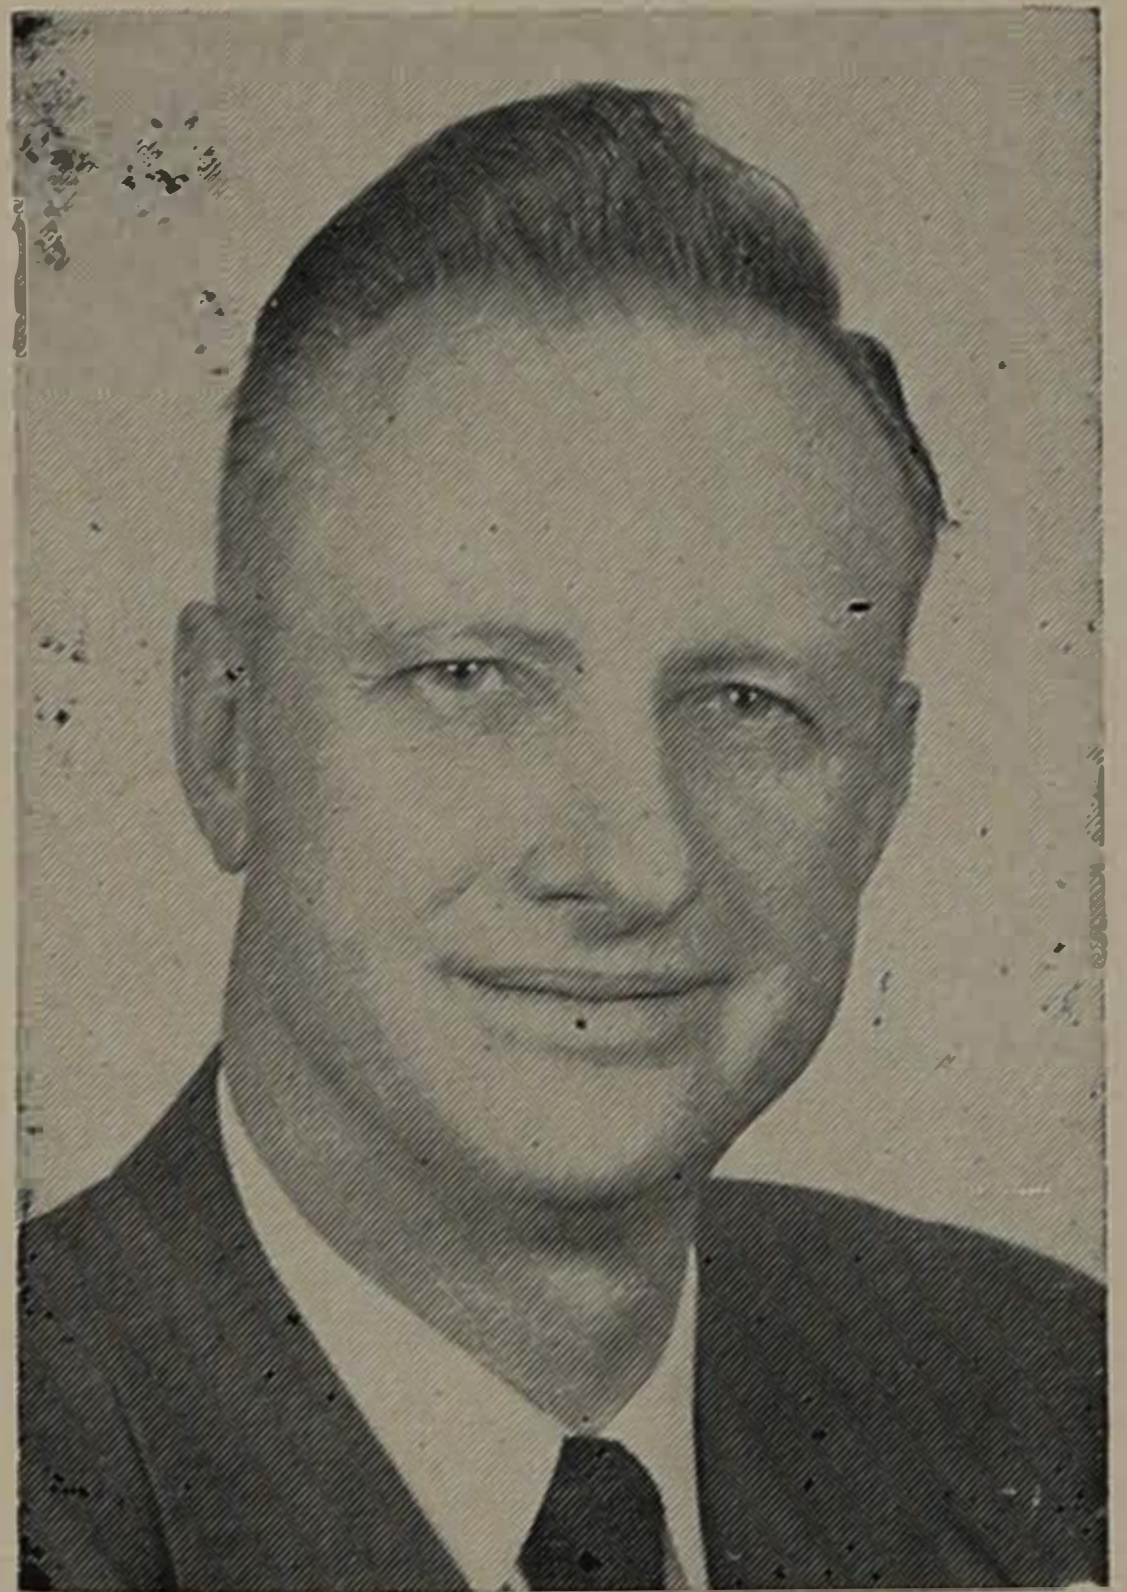

One of the commendable characteristics of State College students is that they display good judgment and enthusiasm for any job they tackle. The Little International is an excellent example of what a group of competent young men and women can do in demonstrating these attributes.

The Little International should be bigger and better than ever before. Reasons for this prediction are that experience of past years is being utilized fully and expansion of activities for the women should result in wider interest.

The Little International is typically a South Dakota show. Agriculture and concerns of the home are always foremost in the affairs of the state.

I am pleased to join with the students and faculty in welcoming you to South Dakota State College. I trust that you will take the opportunity to become better acquainted with the campus and the folks who make the college a living and worthwhile organization. We want you to enjoy this occasion.

Sincerely yours, John W. Headley, President

Manager . . .

The full responsibility for organizing the show and coordinating the efforts of the Little International staff rests on the shoulders of the manager, George Cook. He heads a show that is the largest of its kind in the United States. To him goes the credit for another successful year.

George, who comes from Clear Lake, South Dakota, is a senior Agricultural education major. Besides being the manager of this year's show, he also belongs to Ag club, Ag education club, Blue Key, the college 4-H club and Prexy club. Offices he has held include 4-H club president, Ag club secretary, ag representative to board of control, sheep superintendent for Little International, and last year was assistant for the show. He has also been a member of the junior and senior judging teams. We, the Little International staff, congratulate him on a job well done.

GEORGE COOK

The entire staff of the 1955 Little International takes great pleasure in presenting our 32nd annual exposition. As in past years, much effort has been made to improve the quality of the presentation, and expand it in an effort to make it more entertaining and educational for each of you. Entertainment is our prime objective, but two other important considerations make this event purposeful. First, all phases of the show give practical experience to the students in agriculture and-or home economics. This experience can be applied to their major field now, and it will build toward their career aims. This holds true for both staff members and exhibitors. Secondly, through presentation of material here, we hope to pass on to our friends who visit us, new information and beneficial ideas. The fact of your attendance signifies your appreciation of our effort, and is the standard by which we measure our success.

We thank each of you for your part in making the 1955 show valuable.

Much time and conscientious effort has been put forth by a 72 member staff, exhibitors and other friends of ours, to make the show what it is. It is difficult, because of the time, to give adequate thanks to each individual. However, it seems essential to single out ROBERT DUXBURY, the assistant manager, who deserves special recognition as a tireless organizer and planner. It has been a genuine pleasure to work with each staff member, and I deeply appreciate your cooperation. I give you each my individual, and warmest thanks. My appreciation extends just as sincerely, to our friends who supported us by their presence. My parents have been a constant source of encouragement to me, as ever, and for their help in creating this show, I extend to them the appreciation of us all.

Saturday evening, March 19, will see the close of the 1955 Little International. Staff assistants will move to control positions as manager or superintendents for 1956. We sincerely wish them every possible success as they continue to produce and improve the leading college agricultural exposition of its kind in the United States.

George W. Cook, Manager
1955 Little International

The Dean Says . . .

The Little International, an "all-out" activity of the Division of Agriculture, and in recent years the Division of Home Economics cooperating, is an event of several meanings.

From the general manager through to all the students who perform their parts in making the Little International a success, there is the realization of participation. Planning, cooperating, and working are elements that take on new meaning in the lives and training of the participating students.

There is the opportunity to learn the meaning of winning with humility or of losing with grace.

The Little International also has a definite meaning to State College as a whole for such an outstanding event contributes to that important asset known as "College Spirit."

This event just does not happen. Many hours of work has gone into its preparation. Both the Ag. Boys and Home Ec. Girls have given freely of their time and talents, and now present for your education and entertainment this outstanding show. All the animals shown belong to State College. The Home Economics and art and craft exhibits, are made by the girls. The Horticultural Exhibits are original arrangements by students putting into practice the principles of flower arrangement. The grain exhibits offer training in preparation and selection. The machinery for the exhibit is furnished by various companies and give opportunities for students to learn and explain to the public the merits of the various makes.

We trust that our visitors will enjoy this show window of Agriculture and Home Economics activities, as you are being provided an inside look of the efforts and ideals of the students who are preparing themselves for the professions of Agriculture and Home Economics.

Ag Club Queen . . .

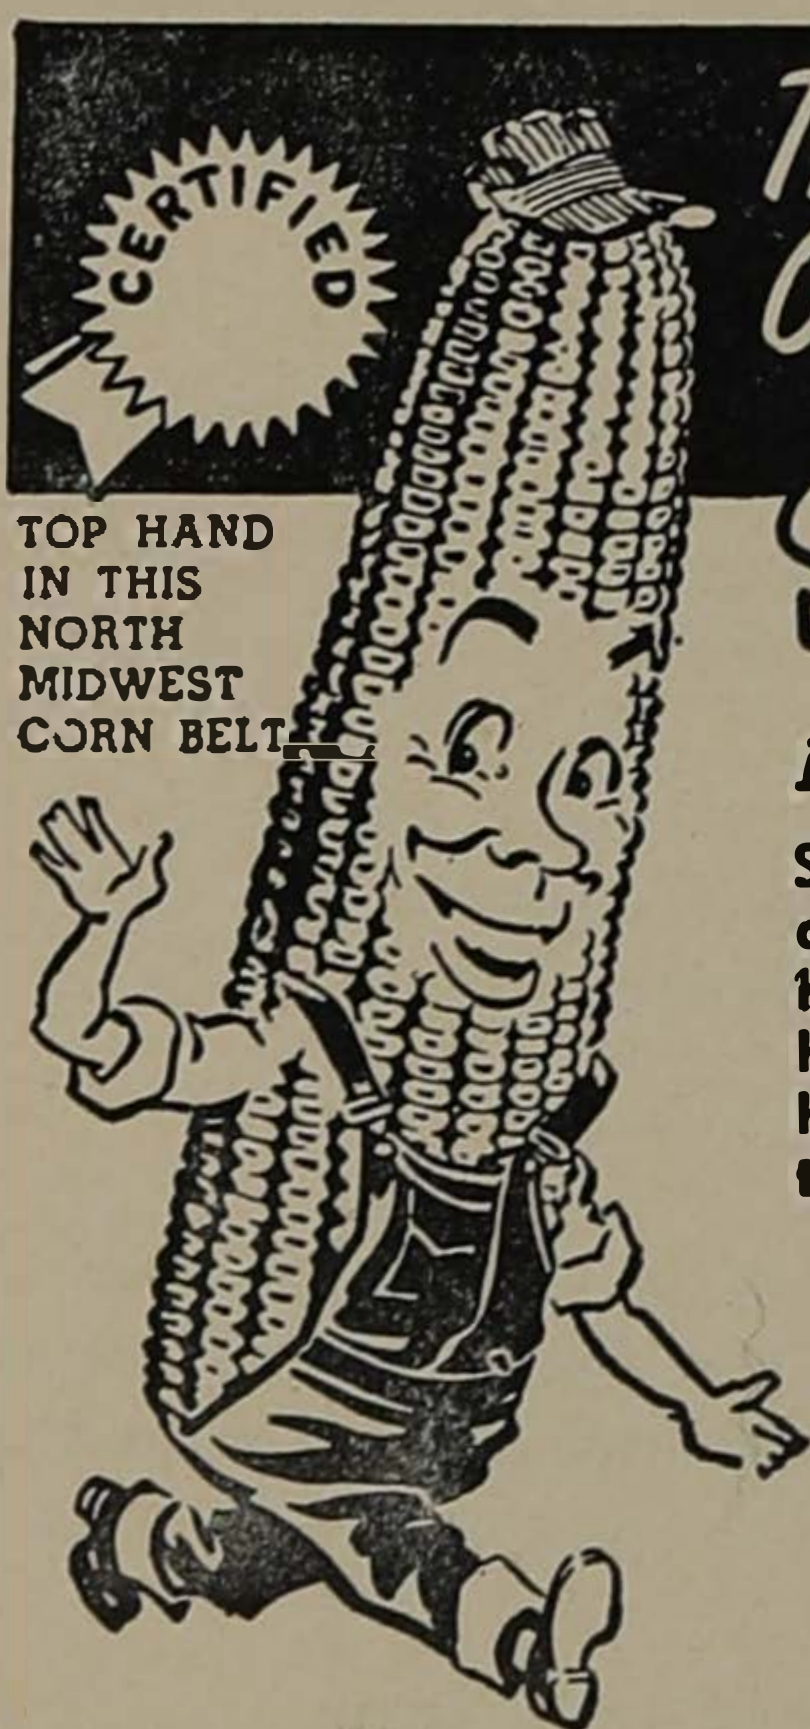

Nine out of every ten girls at State College are pretty . . . and the tenth one? She's beautiful!! We would like to present her to you; Our Ag club queen, Millie Hammer.

Chosen by the Ag club on the basis of beauty and personality, she will act as official hostess for the show and will present the trophies to the various winners at the evening shows.

Millie is a graduate of Franklin High School. She is a home ec education major and will graduate this spring from State. She has been very active in various college organizations, and besides being a member of the 1955 Little International Staff, she also belongs to Stakota club, Guidon, Phi U, Wesley club, Home Ec club and is a member of the Union Board. She was elected Engineers Sweetheart in 1954 and this year was named as one of the senior celebrities. All in all, she makes a fine queen and Ag club is mighty proud of her.

SOKOTA

CERTIFIED HYBRID SEED CORN

Adapted for the Climate of Your Farm

Sokota Hybrids yield more corn under hot dry conditions than open-pollinated corns or other hybrids because they are bred for deeper roots, have less foliage to give off moisture and carry hardy strains that are native to these conditions.

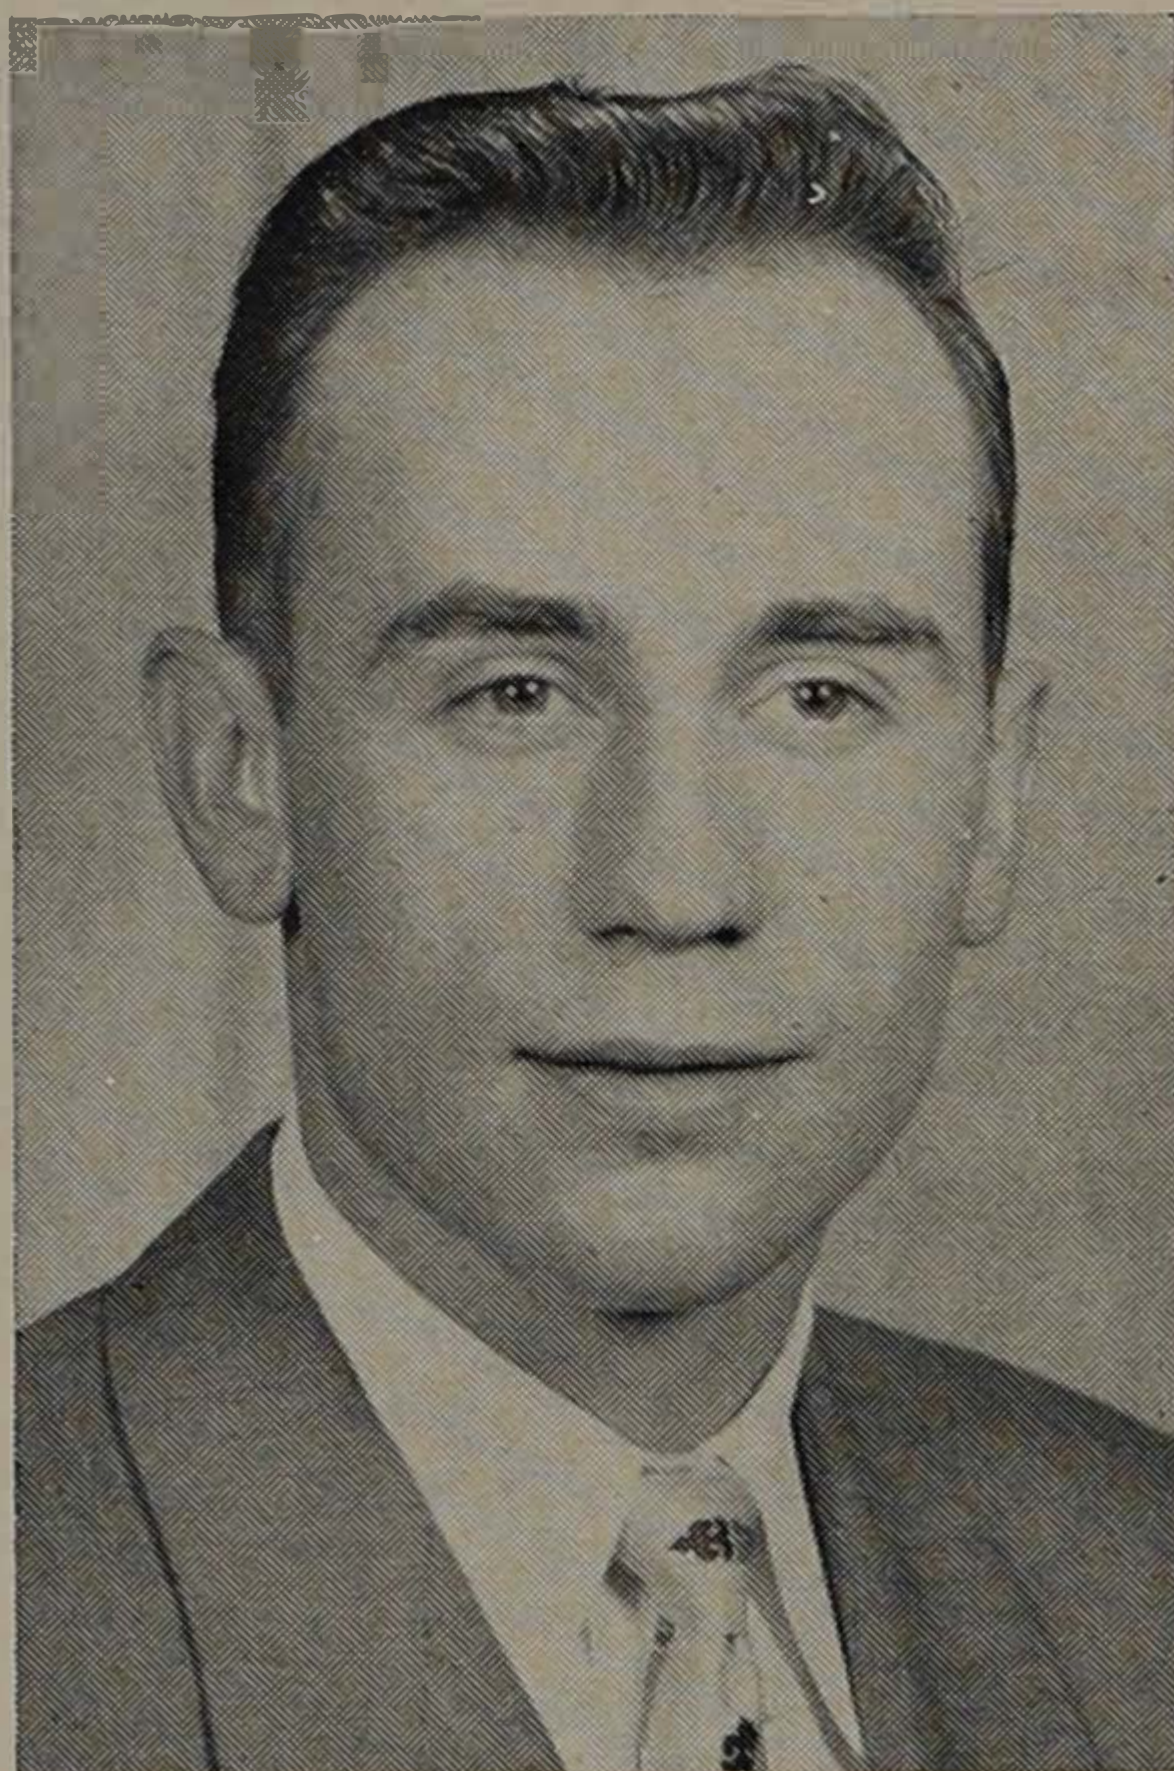

Plant the corn that tough Dakota weather has helped to develop, and official tests by the South Dakota Agricultural Experiment Stations have proved to be the most dependable top producer year in and year out. To be sure of your next yield and profit, plant Sokota!

Ag Club President . . .

Master of Ceremonies

When the evening show begins, Willard Ottman, Ag club president, comes into his own. As master of ceremonies, it's his job to keep the show rolling by introducing the various contests and attractions and give a running commentary on the events taking place.

Willard is a senior animal husbandry major from Shadehill, South Dakota. Besides being Ag club president, he is also an active member of Alpha Zeta, Block and Bridle, Prexy club and Rodeo club. He has also been a member of the junior meats judging team and the senior meats judging team. He has served as a Little International staff member and at present, is an assistant in the meats lab.

WILLARD OTTMAN

Ag club of South Dakota State College takes great pride and pleasure in presenting to you, the 1955 Little International. It is one of the largest and finest expositions of its kind in the United States. The show is managed and produced by the students of the agriculture and home economics divisions and I congratulate them on a job well done.

On behalf of Ag club, I would like to express my sincere appreciation to the manager, assistant manager, staff, contestants and everyone who contributed to the success of the show. It is their combined efforts and many long hard hours of work that has made the show a success.

Students have the opportunity of furthering their education in agriculture and home economics through their participation in the show. It is this experience that helps the students to become future leaders in their chosen professions.

I would like to express my appreciation for your attendance at the 1955 Little International and I hope you have enjoyed seeing the show. Thank you for your interest in the students and activities of State College.

Willard D. Ottman

President, Ag Club

Home Ec Club

President . . .

Home Ec club president for this year is Anita Frye, a senior nutrition-education major, from Pringle, South Dakota.

Anita graduated from Custer high school in 1951 and came to State College on the Occident Flour scholarship which is awarded through 4-H Clubs. She has been a member of 4-H for eight years.

Anita has been active in Home Ec club work during the summers as well as during the school year. In 1952, she represented the club at Camp Miniwanaca, a Christian leadership training camp in Michigan, and last summer, she represented the same group at the Danforth Summer Fellowship group in St. Louis, Mo., and again attending Camp Miniwanaca.

Other campus organizations in which she has been active include Wesley club, Phi Upsilon Omicron, Guidon, and the Women's Self Governing association. She has served as treasurer of Wesley Club, chaplain of Phi Upsilon Omicron and 1st Lt. of Guidon. She is also mentioned in the publication, "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

We in the Home Economics Club are glad that you are attending Little International and welcome you to this important event at State College.

Home Ec Clubbers look forward to and work hard at making our part in this event successful. Little International is one of the most important activities of Home Ec. Club. It gives us a chance to participate by entering exhibits in competition with one another, made either in the college classes or at home. The three divisions of exhibits are: foods, clothing, and arts and crafts. We also have a style show and several demonstrations which are put on by home economics girls.

It is only through the help of these girls and the interest in producing such a show that the home economics part is successful.

We in the Home Ec Club wish to welcome you to visit our newly remodeled department where you may also see our exhibits.

ANITA FRYE

Anita Frye

Home Ec Club President

The Home Ec Dean Says . . .

The Home Economics Club in 1949 joined forces with the Agriculture Club to make the Little International a better and more outstanding event at South Dakota State College. The work is student planned and executed and calls for mutual sharing of responsibility in planning, organization, and management.

The first few years the girls part, even to the style show, was held in the Union ball room. These quarters were soon outgrown and the style show, an important part of the afternoon program was moved to the auditorium. Last year the program was enlarged and this year included a full day's program. This year the girls take great pride in exhibiting their products in the newly remodeled home economics laboratories on the third floor administration building.

Exhibits of the girls' own work in clothing, foods, art and metal work give the student experience in planning, organizing and setting up displays. The girls also arrange for the judging of the products. They plan the theme of their style show and write their script.

An important part of the students clubs preparation for the Little International is that of their selection of the honored homemaker and outstanding citizen.

The Home Economics Club proudly recognize the Little International as one of their club's outstanding activities.

DON KRATOCHVILL

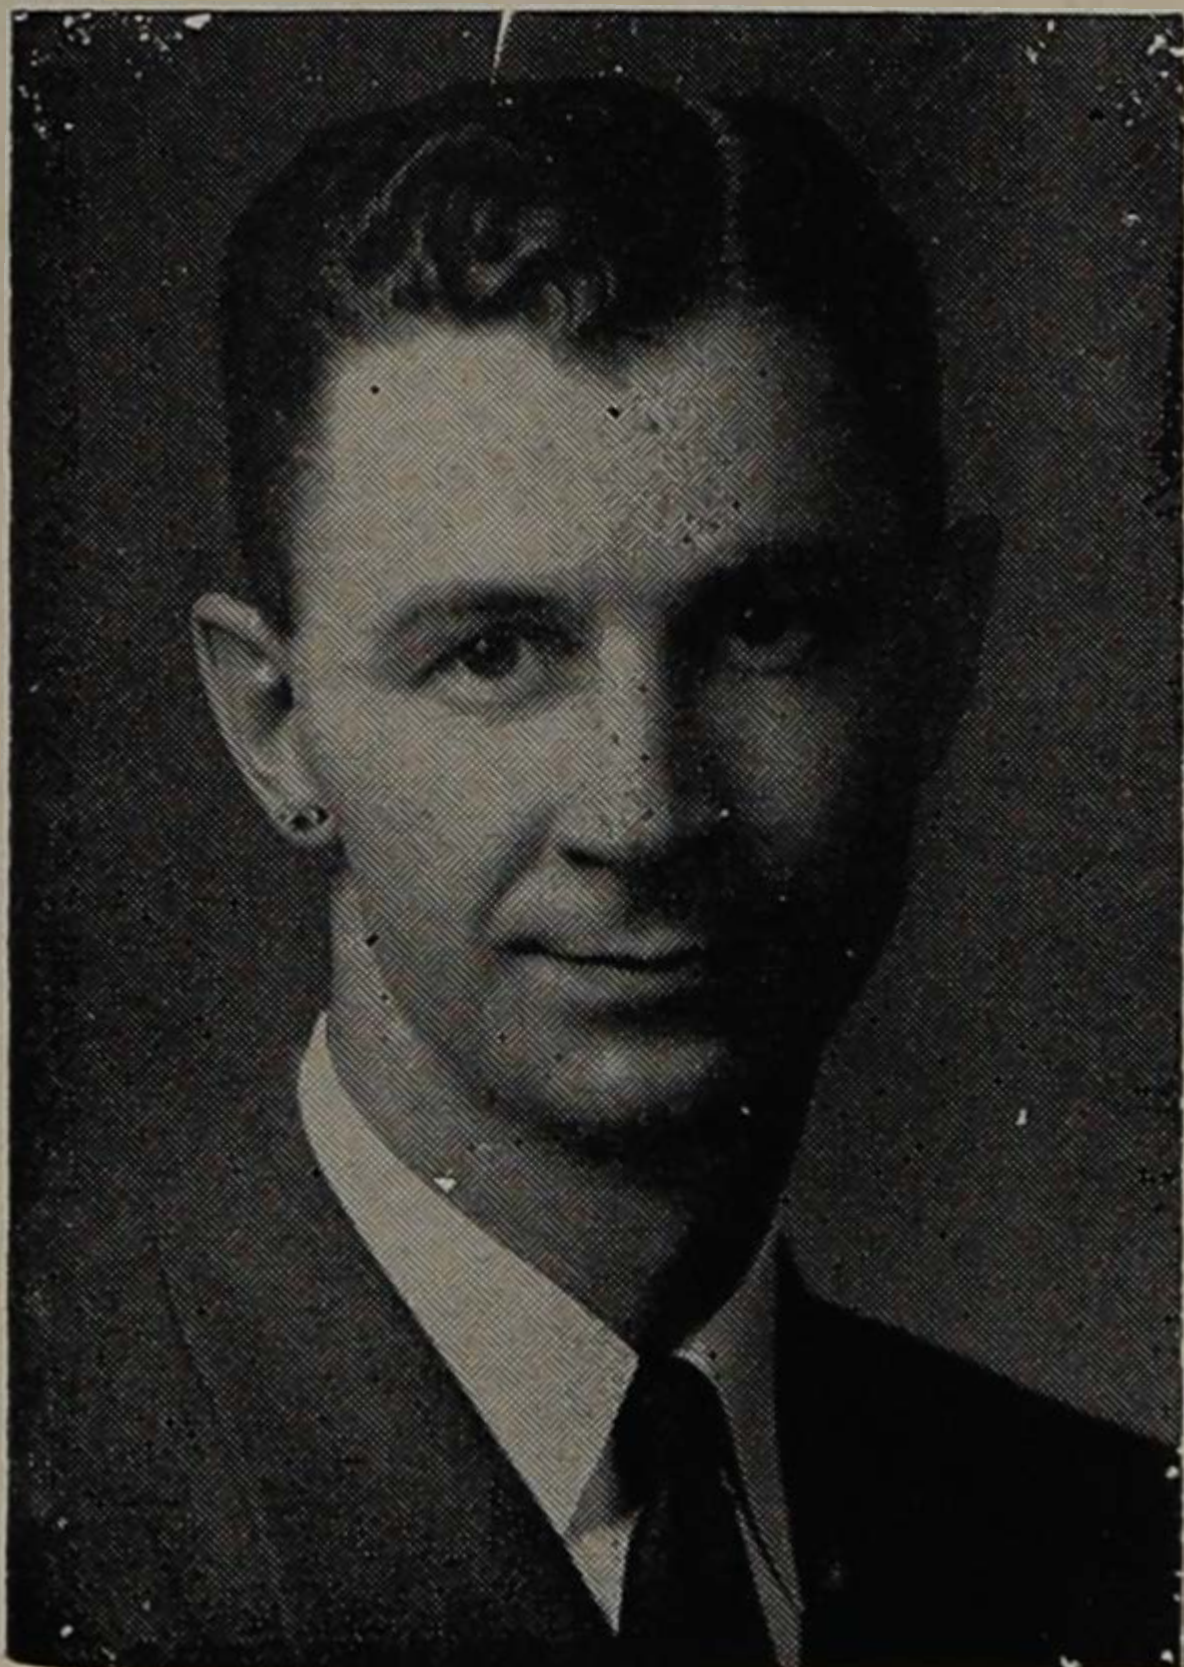

Advisers . . .

Don Kratochvill, assistant professor of agronomy, is serving his fourth year as Little International adviser. As a graduate of State College, Don has been active in past shows. He has edited the catalog in 1943 and 1947 and has entered beef and agronomy classes in past shows. Before he graduated in 1947 Don was an active member of Ag club, Blue Key and Alpha Zeta to which he still belongs.

Since 1949, when the home economics division was added to the show, Miss Young has acted as their adviser. Graduating from Nebraska university, she went on to do graduate work at Merrill Palmer school of Detroit and has received a masters degree from Columbia university.

MISS HELEN YOUNG

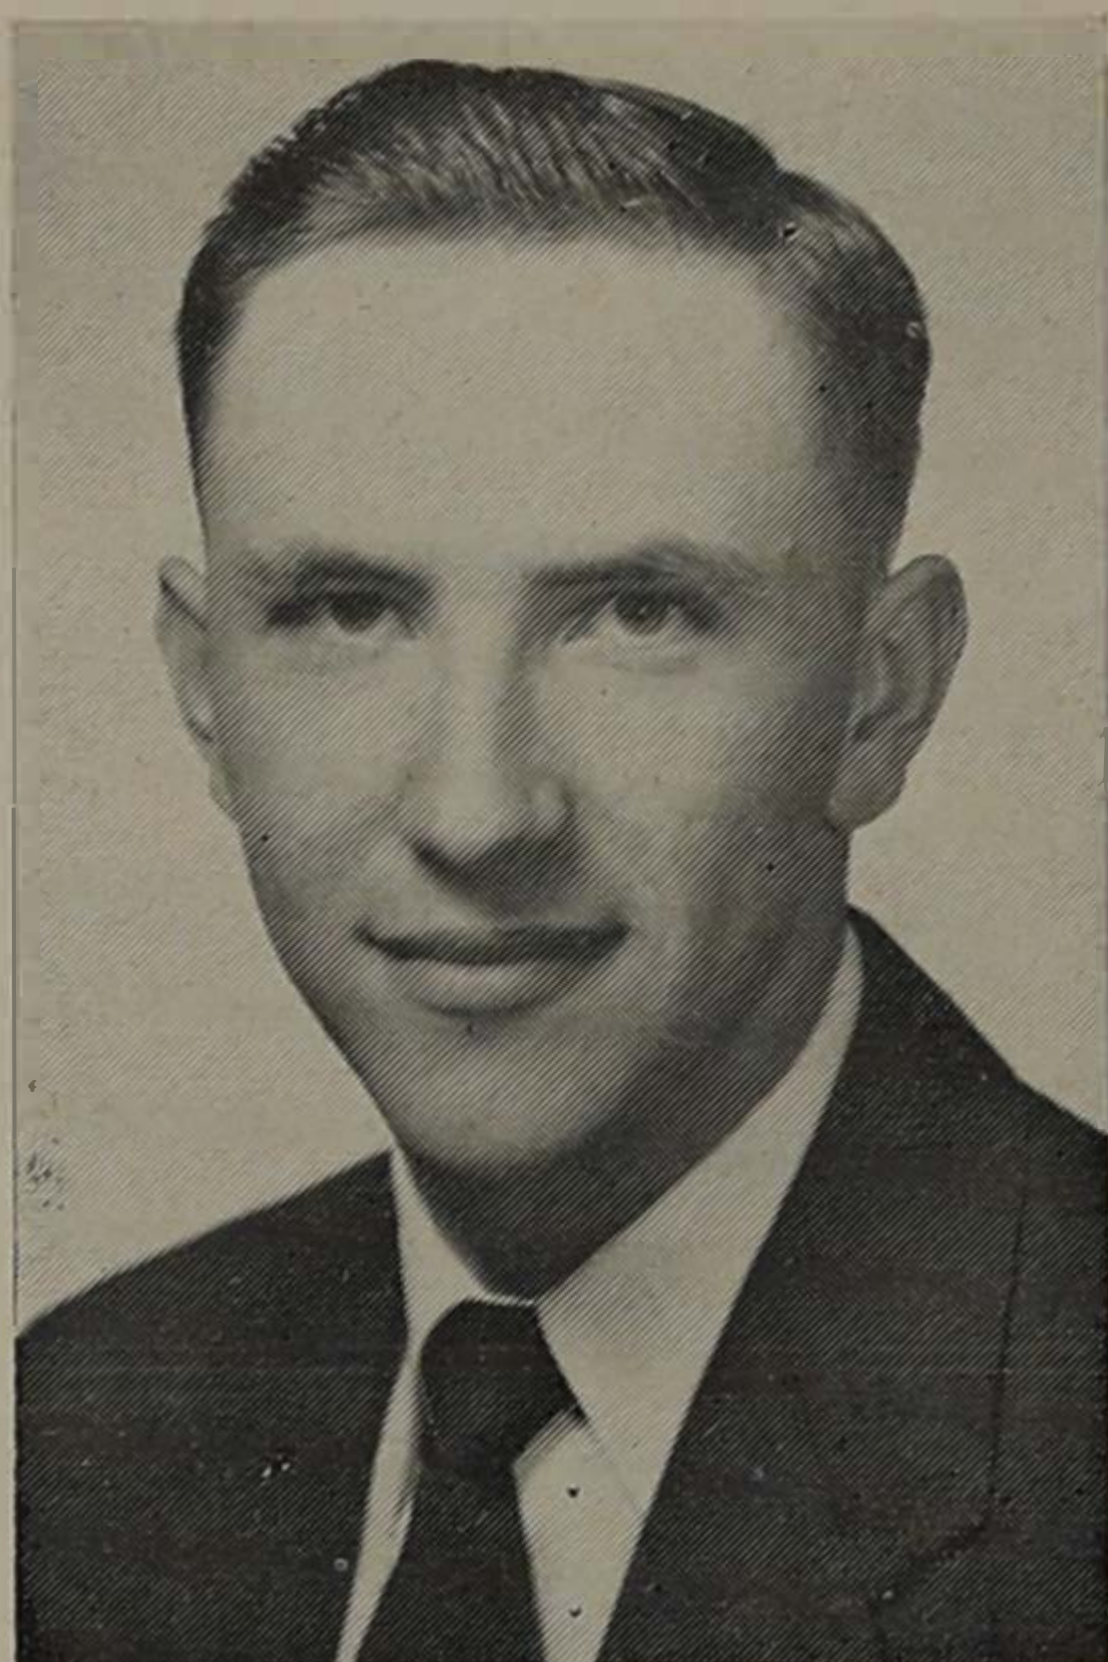

BILL McCONE

Another old hand at Little International shows is Bill McCone, assistant professor of animal husbandry. He is serving his sixth year as adviser. Participation in previous shows includes entries in beef and horse classes and Livestock coordinator. Bill judged entries in the beef division for the 1947 show. He is also a member of Block and Bridle.

Assistant Manager . . .

After months of running errands, finishing jobs and piecing together loose ends for the big show, the assistant manager, Robert Duxbury, will take over the reins and give the orders starting at the banquet Sunday noon when George Cook will officially end his term.

Besides all the work and time required of the assistant manager, Bob still manages to actively participate in several other campus activities. Majoring in animal husbandry, he was picked as a member of the junior livestock judging team and participated in the Denver Stock Show this winter. He is also a member of Ag club, Alpha Zeta and Block and Bridle and has shown animals in the past two Little International Shows.

"Education With A Purpose"

Every student who can do reasonably well in high school should consider a college education. Farm youths, whether they plan to return to the farm or try some other occupation, are invited to consider an "Education With A Purpose" at South Dakota State College.

The boy who intends to continue farming will need many skills to take best advantage of tomorrow's advances in agriculture. He can get the background and training necessary to plan for changing farming methods in his studies at State College.

Many youths are interested in non-farm agricultural occupations. State College can assist students to prepare for careers in agricultural research, extension service, journalism, sales and many other fields related to farming and ranching.

Other farm boys may be interested in other fields of endeavor for their life's work. For such a lad State College offers work in engineering, pharmacy, teaching, physical education, mathematics, science and many other fields.

Many of these fields are also open to girls. Women students at State College can also prepare for home economics jobs in teaching, industry and research. Nursing and nursing education are also popular with girls looking for useful and interesting work.

The 43 departments at State College offer 1165 courses in fields ranging from Art to Zoology which help the student prepare for a useful career and develop cultural interests. For further information write:

Those who work with 4-H boys and girls look to America's future with confidence.

For they know that here are more than two million young people whose daily lives uphold the highest ideals of character and good citizenship. Many of the young folks participating in the 1955 Little International are or were 4-H Club members. There are over 14,000 4-H Club members in South Dakota who wish the 1955 edition of the show the best success yet.

Grand Champion Showmanship Award

Darwin Stolte, 1954 Grand Champion Showman
Trophy Donated by the South Dakota Hereford Association

Reserve Grand Champion Showmanship Trophy Donated by South Dakota Aberdeen Angus Ass'n.

The Grand Championship Showmanship trophy is the most sought after and coveted award of the entire show. Above is pictured Darwin Stolte, Chamberlain, South Dakota, being presented the award by Pat Clancy, queen of Ag club last year. This year, Darwin is swine superintendent on the Little International Staff. He has also been recently elected State College student president for the coming year.

Winners in each livestock division return to the arena for the final event on the Saturday night program to compete for the trophy. Each individual must show every other animal in the arena in addition to his own.

The Little International staff wishes to thank the South Dakota Hereford Association and the Aberdeen Angus Association for their generous donations which has made this part of the show possible.

We also express our thanks to the Sioux City Stockyards, the Sioux Falls Stockyard, Oleson's Fabric Center and Grossman Sales Ring, Brookings, for the various ribbons they have furnished for the show.

Honest Art, I thought you were just foolin' about that "deadline for the catalog business"

The young man and his wife, driving proudly downtown in their spanking new automobile, agreed to meet at the parking lot at 2:30 p. m.

It was almost time for the man to return to the car and meet his wife, when he remembered he'd forgotten to take his keys from the ignition switch.

Running to the parking lot at full tilt, he arrived just in time to see a thief driving off in his new car. His wife, approaching from another direction, noticed the mishap also, and came running over.

"Of all the dumb tricks," moaned the husband. "Did you see his face, by any chance?"

"Oh hush, dear," soothed the efficient young thing. "You've got nothing to worry about. As he went by, I managed to take down his license number!"

The ship was in dock. And along came a sailor with a big box he carried carefully in his arms. As he tried to go aboard, the bos'n, standing at the gang-plank, stopped him, and eyeing the box suspiciously said: "What you got in there?"

"Aw, it's just a cat, my mascot," said the sailor airily.

"Oh, yeah? What are you giving me," said the bos'n. "Open it up!"

"I tell ye, it's just a cat. I swear it!" protested the sailor.

"Shut up and open that box!"

So the sailor opened it and a cat jumped out and ran away.

The sailor began chasing it like mad, with indignant looks backward at the bos'n, finally disappearing in the shadows ashore.

A while later he reappeared, with the box under his arm, and a happy look.

Patting the box smilingly as he passed the sullen-looking bos'n, the sailor said: "Hope he won't get away this time," and went aboard the boat.

And thus the sailor got his whiskey aboard.

"Hey! Take your hand out of my pocket!"

"All I want is a match."

"Why didn't you ask for it?"

"I don't talk to strangers."

"He's a bad hombre and quick on the trigger. Can shoot before his gun clears the holster, almost."

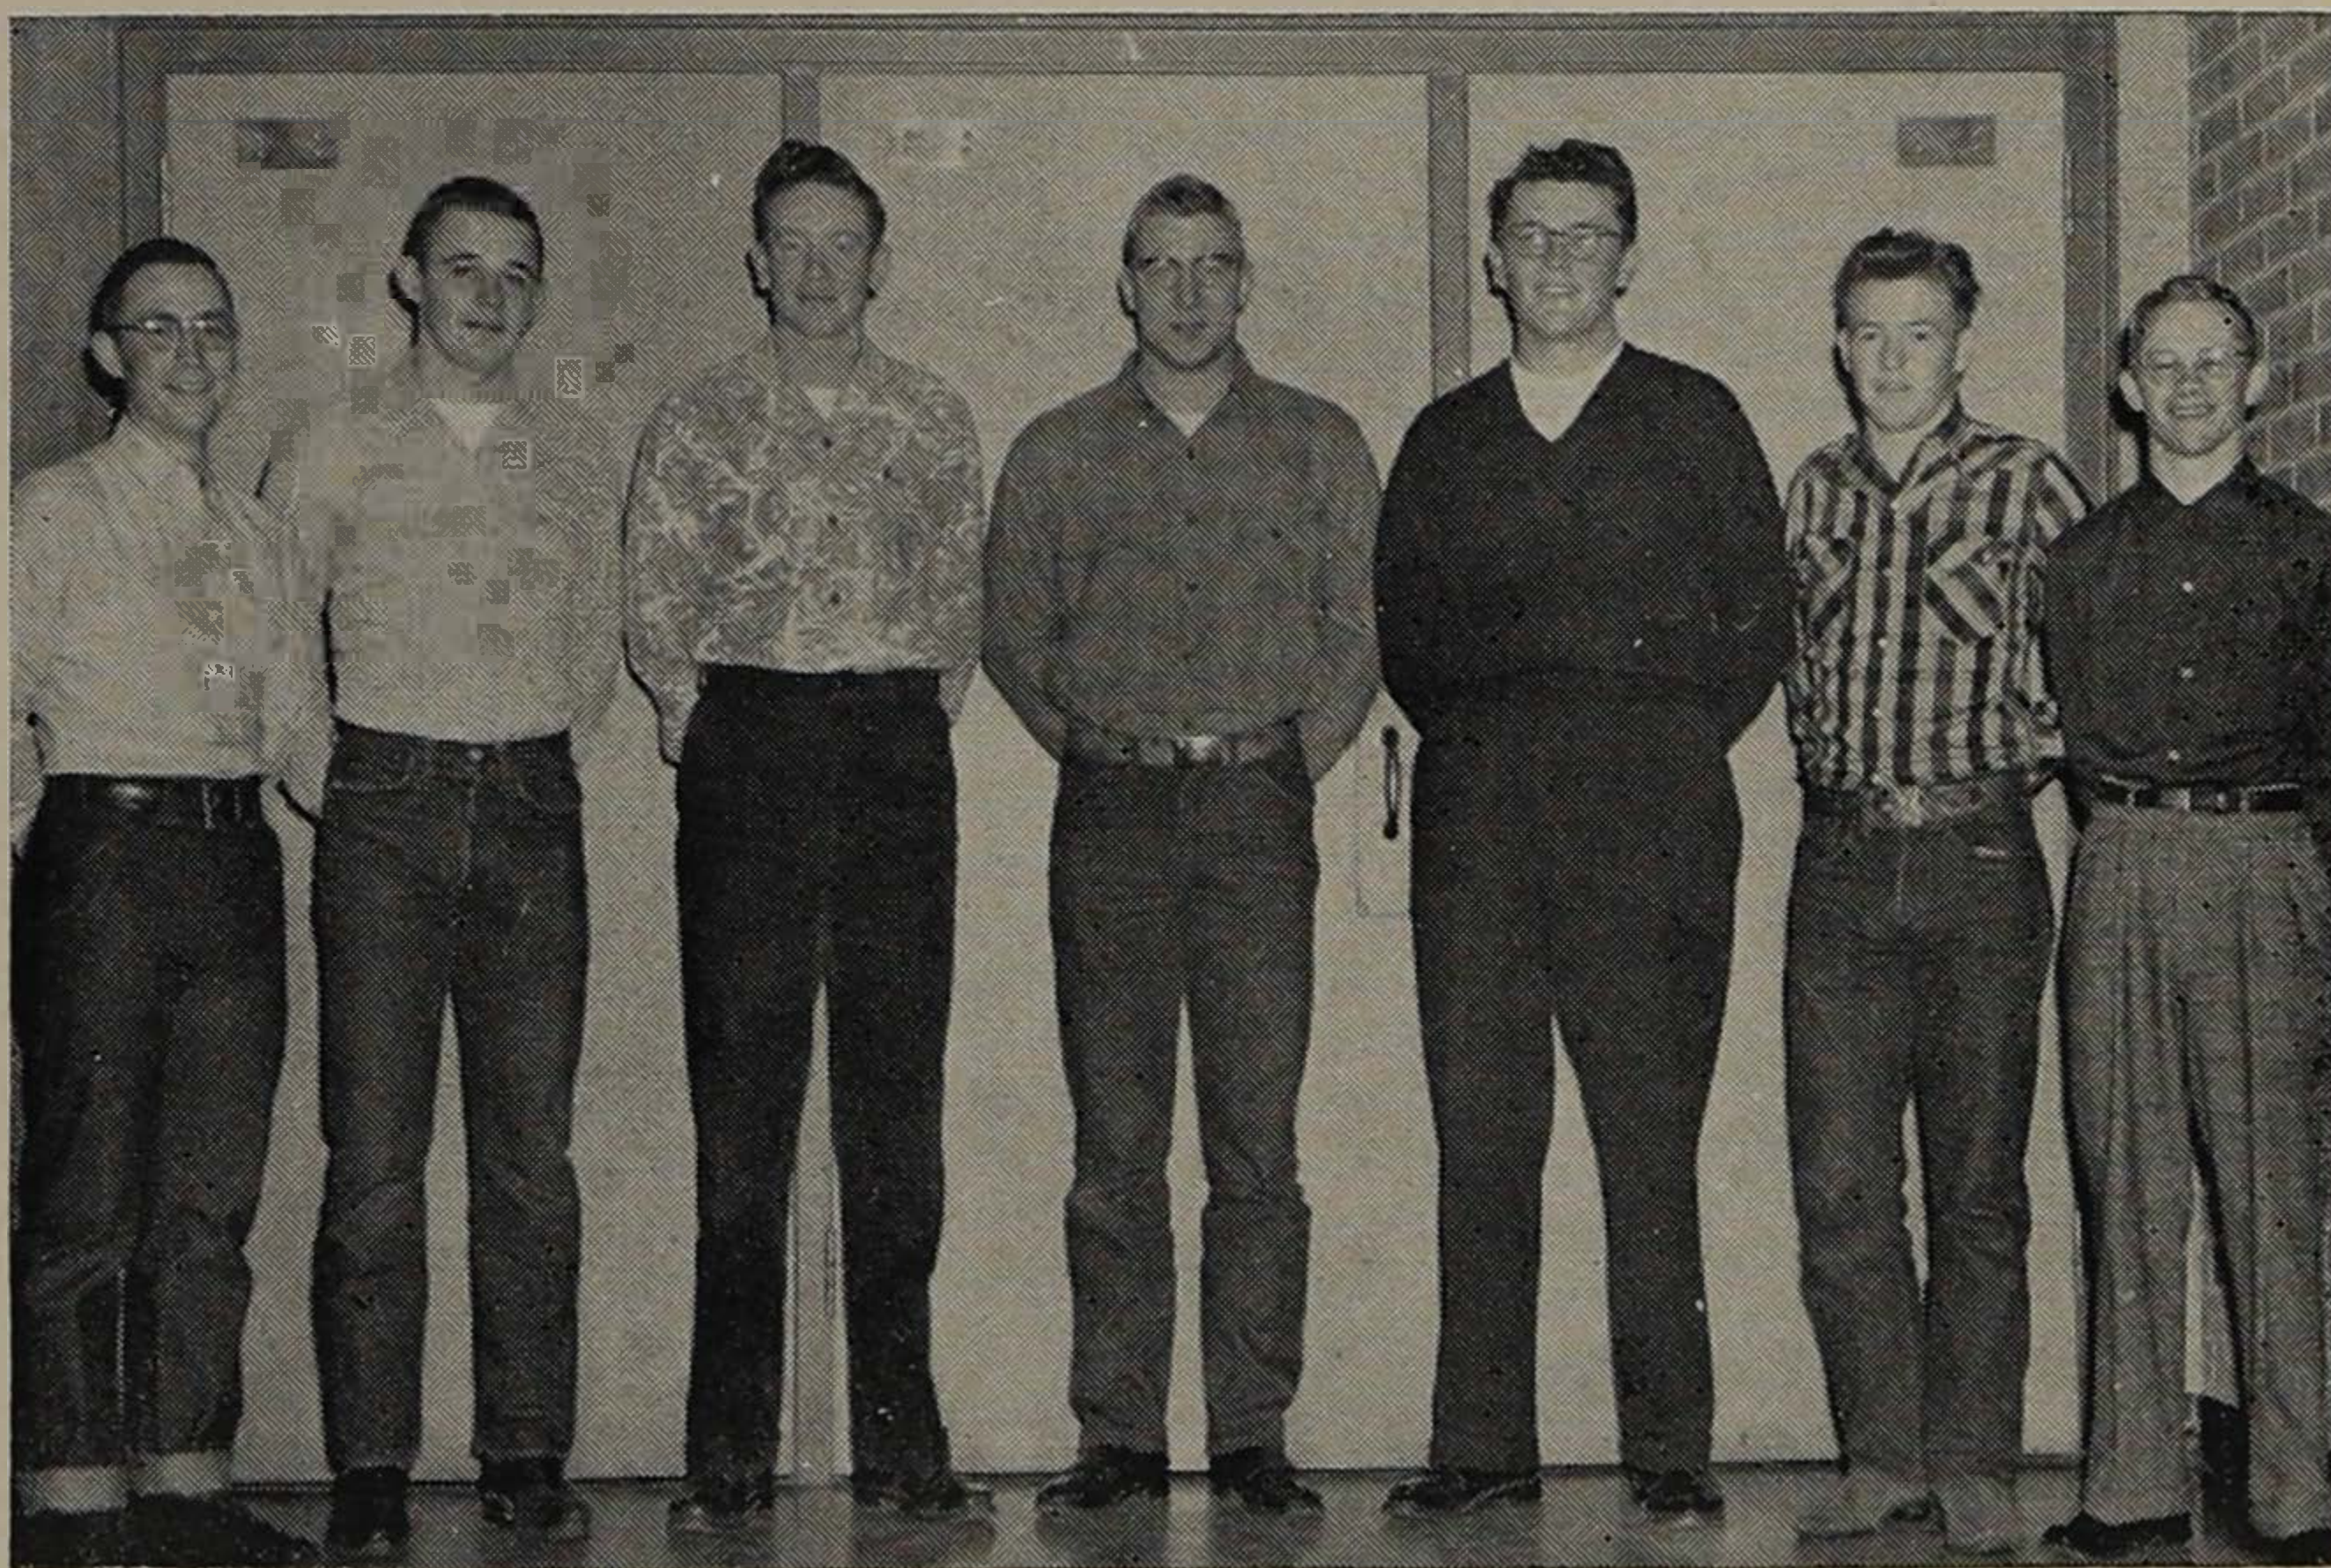

"What's his name?"

"No-Toes Alfie."

"And again I say unto thee—Water ye the sheep and feed them"

A group of Swope Hampshire Ewes. Bred and raised by us.

HAMPSHIRE -- THE UNIVERSAL BREED

Hampshires possess more abundantly those qualities which make sheep more useful, more profitable, more beautiful. They have reached their high position of perfection because of the 135 years of scientific breeding built into them by the leading breeders of America, and in England where they originated in 1820. It takes a long time to perfect a new breed. So Hamps being an old breed have that stability for successful performance bred into them which new breeds do not have.

Hampshires produce a finished lamb of the most desirable weight in the shortest time. They shear a good high quality fleece of good length and texture. Hampshires both pure and crossbred are the choice of lamb feeders and sell at a premium. And packers prefer them, too.

Hampshires have won fat wether Grand Championships over all other breeds for years at the Chicago International.

So when thinking of sheep think of good ones. Think of Swope Hamps — a flock with more than a quarter of a century of pleased customers. Sheep of our breeding have been top winners for 4-H and adults in this and other states for years. Our fleeces have won three top places at the Chicago wool show.
