HUMAN RELATIONS RESOURCES

A GUIDE TO EXTENSION-ORIENTED PUBLICATIONS

Department of Rural Sociology
South Dakota State University
Brookings, South Dakota
The bibliographic information provided in this pamphlet is the first step in a potentially larger project being undertaken by the Department of Rural Sociology at South Dakota State University. The ultimate objective of the overall project would be to compile a detailed annotated bibliography of extension social science related materials available nation-wide. It is the feeling of the department that the communication network within and between regions is not sufficient at this time to allow Extension personnel to be aware of the multitude of support materials available to them. Such awareness may allow us to make use of materials already published and available in other states, yet designed to accomplish similar tasks with which we are concerned.

The publications in the document have been selected for entry based only on whether they are oriented to specific social needs. No attempt has been made at this point to review them for "out-datedness", duplication of other materials, or cost. We provide this with the idea that as you enter into program planning you may want to request a copy from the appropriate institution for review.

The entries in this pamphlet are organized on the basis of whether they pertain primarily to 1) the individual, 2) the family, 3) the group, 4) the community, 5) the region. Within each of these categories the publications are then presented in alphabetical order by title.

It is our hope that you will communicate to us the "usefulness" of this information. In addition we are interested in your suggestions as to other areas which we have not covered and the additional information you feel you need to make this resource more complete.
